New railcar plant

The railcar plant Santa Fé, of ALL and Millenium, which operates an old railcar maintenance workshop of RFFSA, in Santa Maria, is really complying with its production program. Since the beginning of operations, in December last year, it has already manufactured 48 units. The target for the first half of this year is to deliver 150, of the HFE (Closed Hopper) type, also known as bulk railcars, with a useful capacity for 77 tonnes and total weight of 100 tonnes. The model is used, basically, for grain transportation. By the rhythm of its activities, shareholders are interested in increasing investments.
